WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—By the President of the United States of America, Proclamation:

Recollections of Hawthorne.

The "Life of Pierce" appeared and may have helped to elect Pierce, though I doubt it. Elected he was, however, and it was generally understood that Hawthorne was to be provided for with the consulate of Liverpool. Something put into my head—certainly not my good angel, if I had one—that I should like to be provided for also; though not with a consulate abroad. No one could have been more ignorant of what he wanted than I was, and no one could have been so ignorant of the means to be employed in order to obtain it. My nebulous want finally shaped itself into a place in the New York custom house, and the fact was communicated to Hawthorne, though not by myself. He considered the matter so favorably that I went to Concord to talk it over with him. It was winter, or wintry weather when I reached Concord, for the ground, I remember, was covered with snow. It was freezing in the shade and thawing in the sun, and as the sun happened to shine that day, the walking was atrocious. Hawthorne took me into his study—a room similar to and opposite the parlor—where a bright wood fire was blazing, and we sat down to discuss my prospects; but dinner being announced, we postponed that momentous discussion. We dined in the parlor, where I met Mrs. Hawthorne and Una and Julian. After dinner we returned to the study, Hawthorne and myself, where he brought out some strong cigars, which we smoked vigorously. Custom house matters were scarcely touched upon, and I was not sorry, for while they were my ostensible errand there, they were not half so interesting to me as the discursive talk of Hawthorne. He manifested a good deal of curiosity in regard to some old Brook farmers, whom I knew in a literary way, and I told him what they were doing, so far as I know, and gave him my impressions, such as they were, of the individuality of each. He listened with an occasional twinkle of the eye, and I can see now that he was amused by my outspoken detestation of certain literary Philistines. He was outspoken too, for he told me plainly that a volume of fairy stories that I had just published was not simple enough for the young, and he might have added, was too simple for the old. I could not but agree with him, for by this time I wished sincerely that I had let the wee folk alone. I mentioned the biographic memoranda he had furnished me with, and remarked that my early life resembled his own. My father, like his father, was a Massachusetts sea captain, whose loss had left my mother a widow with three small children, one of whom, like his youngest sister, never beheld his father's face. We fell to talking about the sea, and the influence it had on the childhood of both, and other personal matters which I have forgotten. What impressed me most at the time, was not the drift of our conversation, but the gracious manner of Hawthorne. He expressed the warmest interest in my affairs, and a willingness to serve me in every possible way. In a word he was a soul of kindness, and when I forget him I shall have forgotten everything else.

I have preserved but one of Hawthorne's letters written at this period. It is dated "Concord, March 16, 1853," and is full of sagacious advice in regard to my appointment. I was to pile up as much of a snow ball as I could in the way of political interest, as there never was so fierce a time before among office-seekers; and it would be well for me to go to Washington with the letter he inclosed. "Are you fond of brandy?" he inquired. "Your strength of head (which you tell me you possess) may stand you in good stead at Washington, for most of these public men are inveterate guzzlers, and love a man that can stand up to them in that particular. It would never do to let them see you corned, however. But I must leave you to find your own way among them. If you have never associated with them heretofore, you will find them a new class very unlike poets." He mentioned having finished the Tanglewood Tales, which he considered as fully equal in their way to "Mother Goose," and adds: "I never did anything else so well as those old baby stories." The gist of the letter, however, in the postscript, which I copy for the benefit of all conscientious office-seekers:

"When applying for an office, if you are conscious of any deficiences (moral, intellectual, or educational, or whatever else,) keep them to yourself, and let those find them out whose business it may be. For example, supposing the office of translator to the State Department be tendered to you, accept it boldly, without hinting that your acquaintance with foreign languages may not be the most familiar. If this important fact be discovered afterward, you can be transferred to some more suitable post. The business is to establish yourself somehow and anyhow."

I established myself, by the aid of Hawthorne, in the New York custom house on July 1, 1853; and he established himself in the consulate of Liverpool on the 1st of August of the same year.—Harper's Magazine.

MORNING

The Daily Oregonian.

SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 15, 1872.

The Ballot.

Some days ago we mentioned the act which passed the State Senate providing for voting by ballot instead of viva voce. What has become of this bill? The session is drawing to a close, and whatever is to be done in this direction must be done soon. The people of the State, so far as we have been able to ascertain their sentiments, are desirous of exchanging our present plan of voting, for the ballot. In the Senate, which is composed of both parties in equal numbers, there was but one vote against the bill.

Congress has passed a law prescribing the manner of electing Congressmen, which requires that the vote for that purpose shall be by ballot. A special act was passed excepting our last June election from the operation of the law, but hereafter we shall have to vote by ballot. It will prove exceedingly inconvenient to vote for our State ticket in one way, and for Congressman in another. The two systems will not work very well together.

The Presidential election is now upon us. Already the County Clerks are preparing and distributing poll books in accordance with the viva voce law, and it will soon be too late to make suitable preparation for voting by ballot at that election. If it is proposed to enact this bill into a law it would save considerable expense and inconvenience if it were promptly done.

The railroad organ in Saturday's issue propounds the question, "Can the OREGONIAN be called a Republican organ?" That is a question which we cheerfully leave our readers to determine, not admitting the right of a journal that has only claimed to be Republican for three weeks, to sit in judgment upon the Republicanism of the OREGONIAN—especially when that paper is edited by a man who, on Herodot Herod as a secession Democrat during the late rebellion, and who has never held the confidence of any party that he did not conspire to overthrow. The exceeding modesty of the Bulletin in thus attempting to read out of the Republican party a journal that has numbered almost as many years in advocating and defending the Republican party and its principles, as the Bulletin has numbered days in even pretending to do so, certainly deserves a gold medal. There are men whose presumption leads them to believe that the consideration which is shown for the position they occupy is due to themselves; and it is quite possible that the editor of the Bulletin, having claimed to be a Republican for three weeks, takes it for granted that his being engaged in editing an ostensibly Republican paper, entitles him to dictate to the party, and make himself its ruler, instead of taking his place wherever the interests of the party require his services, as others of the party have always done. There is no more sublime manifestation of impudence on record than that of the editor of the Bulletin assuming to pass judgment upon the Republicanism of the OREGONIAN.

Worthy of Attention.

It is amusing to read the many articles written lately by the editor of the Bulletin, with the evident intent to convince the Republicans of Oregon that the Bulletin is a Republican paper, and that the OREGONIAN is not. "Upon what meat doth this our Cæsar feed that he is grown so great" in the Republican party? It is not long since the Bulletin appeared to be trembling in the balance. His readers before the meeting of the Legislature hardly know whether it was to drop into the Greeley ranks or continue to advocate those special interests of the Republican party which were embodied in Mr. Holladay. Perhaps we are now to have the Republican party as the editor of the Bulletin would have it. How long will we have a Republican party, judging his future by his past political course, if he can control it? How many Republicans would we have in this State if he were allowed to dictate and say who are Republicans and who are not? His test of Republicanism is, Who is loyal to Mr. Holladay and his interests!

It turns out that the Senate amendment to the Police Bill does not, as was reported, deprive the Mayor of any voice in the appointment of the Police Commissioners. The bill as it passed the House authorized the Mayor to make the appointment subject to the approval of the Council. The amendment, we are informed, vests the appointing power in the Common Council, subject to the approval of the Mayor. So the bill is not very far different in effect from what it was when it passed the House. The manner of making the appointment is changed, but it is still necessary to have the concurrence of the Mayor and Council to make an election valid.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, Oct. 12, 1872.

In the House, the greater part of Thursday was consumed in the discussion of H. B. No. 16, known as the Mechanics' Lien bill; Caples for, Mallory against. On yesterday morning the discussion was renewed and the measure passed.

The select committee to whom was referred H. B. 77—the Lock bill—has been prepared since Thursday to report, but for some reason has not done so. The committee will report a substitute for H. B. No. 77, providing for the annual payment of $50,000 for twelve years by the State. At the expiration of the term of the lease, the State is to become owner of the Canal and Locks without further payment. Out of the annual payment of $50,000, the Company is to pay yearly into the Common School Fund the sum of $5,000. This bill will probably pass.

THE IMMIGRATION BILL

which appoints Gen. E. L. Applegate a Commissioner of Immigration, with a salary of dollars, has passed the House and is now in the hands of the Governor. On its third reading, Mr. Martin, of Lane, offered the following tribute to the ability of General Applegate:

"MR. SPEAKER—I hope that this bill will pass. Mr. Applegate is among the earliest settlers—if not the earliest settler—on the Pacific coast and the State of Oregon. He is a literary man, an able theologian and a lecturer!"

For terse brevity, this speech is recommended to the prayerful consideration of several of the more talkative members of the House. That some members of this Legislative body have a rhetoric and a logic peculiar to themselves, is evident to the most careless looker-on. With such a perfect independence of the major and minor premise, of exordium and peroration, it could scarcely be expected that the oratory of the House should always conform to Whately. In most of the important discussions the argumentum ad hominem is supreme. The delicious naïveté of a member from one of the Eastern counties relieves what might otherwise be considered an unvarying monotony of adjectives and pendulous strengthening clauses. The novel elocution of that gentleman is equalled only by the barbaric splendor of his figures which are always adorned with that raw vigor which the vernacular of Oregon alone can furnish in its highest perfection. Then in the Senate we have the mustang eloquence of our Senator whose fondness for red-hot invective keeps pace with that sublime self-confidence that sometimes awes the person who may occupy the Chair, into tangled rulings. Senators sometimes beg to be excused from presiding when that gentleman desires to address the Senate. Yesterday the lobby was regaled with a contest between the

of the Senate, Dolph, of Multnomah, and Myers, of Clackamas, in which the latter did all the talking. The question was on the adoption of H. J. R. No. 3, which recites various planks in the Cincinnati platform, and concludes by resolving that, for the sake of consistency, the Greeley Democracy thereby rescinds the action of a former Legislature in rejecting the 14th and 15th amendments. Here was an opportunity for the President of the Senate to give vent to the long suppressed fires of his hatred of the "Salem Ring," and he seized it with alacrity. As Mr. Fay's speech affords the first authoritative expression of the views of that immaculate wing of quondom Democracy that could not be bartered away by the Baltimore Convention, we give it entire:

Mr. President: A few months since in the city of Cincinnati Horace Greeley received the nomination for President at the hands of the Liberal Republican Convention. A few weeks after a Convention assembled at Baltimore, and styling itself the National Democratic Convention, endorsed that nomination and the platform upon which it was made. In that platform I find the following language:

1. We recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of the Government, in its dealings with the people, to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever nativity, race, color, or persuasion, religious or political.

2. We pledge ourselves to maintain the union of these States, emancipation and enfranchisement, and to oppose any re-opening of the questions settled by the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution.

The resolutions now under consideration are perfectly in accord with these planks and if we are consistent we are bound to endorse the resolutions as we have endorsed the planks. The Convention at Baltimore transferred the Democracy to the Liberal Republican party, of which one Jasper W. Johnson is Secretary. Mr. Johnson is not unknown to us. He used to frequent this "neck of woods," and from my brief acquaintance with Jasper I must say that I want none of him.

Senator Strahan—Didn't you support J. W. Jasper Johnson for Congress?

Mr. Fay—I did, as I have supported many other men who have gone back on the Democratic party. But, sir, at the time of the election of delegates to the Baltimore Convention no Republican dreamed—no Democrat dreamed—no man dreamed that Horace Greeley would ever be the candidate of the Democratic party. No such issue was presented to the Democracy of Oregon. Now, sir, I for one protest against and deny the right of the Baltimore Convention to transfer the allegiance of the Democratic party of Oregon. But it has been done, and now those gentlemen who endorse that transfer are placed in a most ludicrous dilemma by these resolutions. For, sir, if they stand by the Baltimore Convention they must vote for these resolutions which declare the Amendments to be righteous and just. If they defeat the resolutions they go back on the Baltimore Convention which also declared them to be righteous and just. That is the dilemma, that's what makes it so awkward; so confounded awkward! (Laughter). But sir, I shall vote against these resolutions because I still believe that the consent of the Legislature of the State of Oregon to the adoption of these amendments was obtained by an infamous fraud on the people of Eastern Oregon. I ask for light from the Senator from Benton (Mr. Strahan).

Mr. Strahan could not see the dilemma in which the Democracy was placed. As long as the amendments were open questions it was the right of every man to support or to oppose them. Now they have passed beyond the range of politics; have ceased to be political and have become judicial questions. As far as my own opinion is concerned, I do not abate one jot or tittle of my former belief; not because these amendments to the Constitution have been declared valid law by the highest judicial tribunal of the land,—for that reason alone I yield obedience. But if experience shall prove in after years that they have made such inroads upon the Constitution as are dangerous to our liberties, then I think the people will abrogate them as willingly as they adopted them—and more so.

Senator Fay replied in a brief speech, after which the Senator from Clackamas, proceeded to express his views in remarks lucid—at intervals. The Senator from Grant, followed with a brief dissertation or "buncombe."

After a short time spent in rousing somnolent Senators from their slumbers, a vote was reached. Mr. Watson wanted to clasp hands with Senators across the "bloody chasm"—but they wouldn't clasp worth a cent for the Joint Resolution, was defeated by a strict party vote, 11 to 11.

The Senate and House then adjourned to visit

THE WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.

Seats on the rostrum were provided for the honorable gentlemen and brief addresses were made by Messrs. Mallory, Caples, Collier and Mrs. Duniway. The students performed their calisthenic exercises in a manner which elicited highest praise from the visitors. The perfect order which characterized the afternoon's entertainment reflects great credit on the able Faculty to whom the success of this institution is in a great measure due. At 4:15 the members returned and very soon the House was deep in the merits of the bill to increase the salaries of Supreme Judges. Pending its consideration the House adjourned.

THE MORNING SESSION

of to-day brought an anxious crowd of lobbyists who waited expectant for the report of the select committee on the lock bill. They were not doomed to disappointment. The amendments reported by the committee are as given above.

The bill to raise the salaries of the Supreme Judges was amended so as to give them one thousand dollars additional salary, and passed.

A sovereign fate awaited the bill giving to

on the liquor question. Despite the earnest zeal and untiring efforts of the friends of the woman suffrage question, they have been defeated throughout. Nevertheless, it must be to them a sign of encouraging import that they have received so strong a vote in the House, for the bill above referred to was defeated by, ayes 21, nays 22.

H. B. No. 69, relating to the fees of certain officers, was made the special order for Monday.

The bill creating the office of

was amended so as to appoint Rev. Thomas Condon such officer, at a salary of $1,500, with an appropriation of $4,000 for necessary surveys and explorations. The urgent need of a law of this character seems to be appreciated by every one, and the sole ground of opposition has been economy.

IN THE SENATE.

The bill introduced by Mr. Moores, empowering the Governor to appoint Mrs. Dr. Mary P. Sawtelle, a Commissioner of Immigration, came up on second reading. This bill appropriates $400 to the payment of Mrs. S. on proof that she has labored diligently in the Eastern States for six months, a further sum of $600 upon her proving to the satisfaction of the community that she has induced fifty persons of good moral character to leave the homes of their childhood and the tombs of their ancestors, etc., ad infin., to brave the dangers of these western wilds. The fate of the bill might have been read in the broad smiles of sundry Senators on its first reading. But if the skill with which the Senator from Benton steered the Democratic ship safely past the Scylla and Charrybdis of H. J. R. No. 3, and it should be brought to bear upon this measure, who knows but that the importunate Doctor Mary may yet traverse the continent in search of those fifty men of spotless fame? The terms of the contract remind us forcibly of the mission of Sir Galahad in search of the Holy Grail.

But the Houses must have relaxation from the toilsome duty of committee work and the turgid eloquence of debate. So last night they attended the theater at the invitation of Mr. Waldron, and witnessed wherein Mr. Waldron and Mrs. E. F. Stewart won unbounded applause. Doubtless it was a rare spectacle to some one in the audience. Oftentimes in the middle of a most impressive soliloquy, a sudden snort gradually rounding into a prolonged horse-laugh, would startle the audience and dismay the actor. Certainly this was by far the best tragedy that has ever been put upon the boards in Salem.

The Senate this noon adjourned to Monday, but the House has been stricken with a sudden and commendable attack of economy, and proposes to work in earnest this afternoon.

SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13, 1872.

CITY.

MISSION SUNDAY SCHOOLS.—About six years ago, the Teachers' Association of the M. E. Sunday School, thought they saw a field for Christian effort in the southern part of the city, and forthwith a room was secured in an old building and a Mission Sunday School was organized. After a few months, during which time the school seemed often to be a doubtful experiment, a lot was secured on the corner of Hall and Sixth street, where after a while a neat church was erected and a Church Society organized, the Sunday School of which now numbers nearly one hundred. One year ago on the 7th day of October, in accordance with action previously taken by the Taylor street Sunday School Society, a Sunday School was organized in the skating rink in the northern part of the city. It continued to hold its sessions there for several weeks, until it became too cold for comfort, when it removed to the North Portland school house, where it has held its regular sessions until the present time. It has had its days of prosperity and its days of darkness, but has come out safely, and is constantly increasing in interest and numbers, the attendance lately being between 45 and 50. On this afternoon, the Sunday School will hold its anniversary exercises, at 3 P. M. Reports from the Superintendent, Secretary, Librarian and Treasurer will be read, and addresses delivered by Rev. C. W. Iser, J. K. Gill and others.

PETRIFIED CLAM.—When and where will the freaks of Dame Nature cease? A very singular rock formation was shown us yesterday, which to all appearances seems to be a petrified clam. It consists of a clam shell opened nearly at right angle, with a pebble grown fast between. A careful inspection of the pebble and shell will effectually dispel the impression which a casual observer would momentarily gain, that the stone had by accident lodged between the edges of the shell, and in course of time became firmly attached. The pebble has grown inside and conforms exactly in shape to the concavity of the shell in such a manner as to preclude the belief that it was otherwise than the petrifaction of the body of the clam. In several places the stone has grown over the edges of the shell, which can be dimly traced. The pebble is of a dark color, and as hard and flinty as granite, while the outer surfaces of the shell bears but faint evidence of the long and tireless action of the waves. It is a rare curiosity and is worthy a place in a museum. The stone and shell were picked up last summer on the Yaquina beach.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship John L. Stephens sailed this morning for San Francisco, with freight and the following passengers: A P Stewart, E B Montague and wife, Capt Babbitt and wife, Gen Babbitt and wife, Wm S King and wife, Wm Howard, J N Windsor, V Hodge and wife, Mrs Tileston, Mrs M Guinn, Capt J C Ainsworth, Gilbert Monger, S Johnson, S Parvine, Mrs White, Miss Mary McLane, Wm Windsor and son, Dr Thayer, John N Goodwin, Mrs J M Brock and two children, J P Mattingly and wife, Miss Lizzie, Mrs F Mercer, Mrs E C Dallas, J N Cook, J Peary, L R Watkins and wife, Mrs R D Jacobs, Miss Mattie Jacobs, Alex Ray, H Daly, O Wolfe and wife, J R Helm, John McGee, Miss H McGee, Miss S E McGee, Miss J Morrison, Miss Mary Jacquies, S P Hoefer, Theo Kirchoff, J Burrell, M Ryan, John Ward and wife, Miss Mary Evarts, Mrs Faro, S Goldberg, G M Amidon and wife, L M Pearhain, O T Harvey, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Messenger and 25 in the steerage.

GET YOUR LICENSE.—The time was, before our city fathers took it into their wise heads to prevent by municipal enactment, the too rapid increase of canines, that every dog had his day; but now the dog that ventures abroad without the legal endorsement gambs within the wrath of a city ordinance. Innocent, baby curs who were wont to make playful attacks at the legs of metaphysical pedestrians, bull purps that snarled gloomily at school children, and fastened with glee to a lady's pet dog, roving mastiffs, who haunted the butcher's shops and lived on the charity of the multitude, have all found their Nemesis in the shape of the pound man, yclept "Gassy Charley." To who are wont to gaze with an admiring eye on your favorite spaniel, do not delay, for that is attended with hazard. The remorseless destroyer is on the track; get your license and "tag" your dog.

PASSENGERS.—The steamer Oriflamme sailed yesterday from San Francisco for this port. She brings the following list of passengers: Count and Countess Fourtales, P Watson, Mrs B J Smith and child, Miss E Rash, C Fragerlo, Rev S Bowers and family, Mrs S E Strong and child; Miss L Kennedy, Mrs N J Wattrack, Ed Archer, Mrs J House, J H Archer Miss M A Archer, E L Archer, Miss M Archer, Mrs E P Rogers and two children, J Gammage, A Forges Jr, D Theodore, Rev D K Nesbit, W S Knapp, J W Stowell, Mrs J W Stowell, Mrs S R Foster, A E Miller, Mrs Doland and son, J Silverman, J J Weston, Rev T H Henderson and wife, Lt A W Grasly, P Deconcini, T J Bodley and family, Miss J J Stewart, Capt Wm Whyte and wife, Rollin Wells, Dan Archer wife and child, G H Clark, J W Whalley, W S Spear, Mrs W W Day, Miss H Day, O Pringle, Mrs C J Needham.

ASSESSMENT ROLL COMPLETED.—At length the assessment roll, as ordered by the County Court, at its last sitting, has been completed by the Assessor, Mr. John Dolan. Everything is now ready for the County Court to levy the tax. The following table will indicate the amount of taxable property the present year, of Multnomah county, and the increase over that of last year:

Land	1,351,093	1,125,670
Town	5,355,695	4,389,635
Personal property	4,180,092	3,475,210
Totals	10,891,780	9,020,915
Railroads	2,003,150	1,440,016
Increase over last year	3,783,800	7,619,900
	21,178,700

SHIPPING MATTERS.—The bark Manilla is at Astoria. She is ready to proceed to sea, but is unable as yet to obtain a crew, which is the cause of the delay.

Brigs Perpetua and Orient are both ready to take out to sea.

Barks Navigator and Electra are now at Astoria. Both have completed cargoes, and will cross the bar when an opportunity presents itself.

Ship Bowers is discharging cargo into lighters. She will proceed to Kalama soon.

Bark Garibaldi is also lying at Astoria awaiting sailing orders.

A vessel is reported off the bar at last accounts, supposed to be the Webfoot.

TAKEN THEIR DEPARTURE.—The Northern Pacific Railroad party, who have been touring the Sound country and Eastern Oregon, for the last few weeks, took their departure for San Francisco this morning on the steamer John L. Stephens. The party will proceed through to the East without delay. The following persons compose the party: Hon. Geo. W. Cass, Thomas N. Canfield, Thomas Stinson, Frederic Billings, H. B. Morse, Ernest Wilkinson, Wm. B. Ogden, Charles B. Wright, and Wm. Windsor and son.

DALLES POTATOES.—We have been shown a new variety of the "mealy tuber," known as the "Calloo, or Dolly Varden Potato," grown on the farm of Mr. W. D. Prettyman, near East Portland. This variety of potato was awarded the premium at the State Fair, was much admired, and won "golden opinions." They attain a large size, as the skins assume a variegated or calloo appearance, from which peculiarity the variety derives its name. The body of the potato, when cooked, is very nutritious and palatable.

A "BIG SUNFLOWER."—The largest sunflower we have yet had the pleasure of seeing, was brought over from the Clarke county Fair yesterday, on the Vancouver. The monstrous floral specimen was on exhibition at the Fair, and deservedly was awarded the first premium. The following are the dimensions of this extraordinary growth: Entire length of stalk, 18 feet; diameter of the stalk where it was severed, even with the ground, 3 inches, and diameter of the flower 3 feet.

FLAG RAISED.—The very handsome silken flag which was presented a short time ago by the Republicans of California to the Republicans of this State, through the Chairman of the State Central Committee, Charles W. Parrish, was hoisted yesterday over the Republican Headquarters on First street.

ARRIVED EARLY.—The steamer Dicie Thompson arrived at her moorings last evening about two hours earlier than usual. She came up all the way on the flood tide, which explains the time of her arriving.

APPOINTED.—Mr. J. L. Atkinson, of this city, has recently been appointed a Notary Public by Gov. Grover.

NEW FRAME.—The new frame of the addition to the Bishop Scott Grammar School, has been completed, and the building is progressing rapidly towards completion. The tower, surmounting the edifice can plainly be seen from almost any portion of the city, and when completed, will lend an additional beauty to the architectural effect of the school building.

CAPSIZED.—During the chariot race last evening at the Circus, one of these vehicles was capsized on the track, and the driver thrown out. The chariot was run over and smashed to pieces. The driver was picked up, and supposed at first to be badly injured. He soon recovered, and his injuries ascertained to be very slight.

A SEVERE FALL.—A small girl, aged about 4 years, whose parents reside in the lower portion of the city, while playing on the veranda lost her balance and fell to the ground, a distance of 14 feet. The child was picked up by its mother, but singular to relate the girl sustained no injury but a few bruises and a sound fright.

OPERATIONS TO COMMENCE.—Operations are soon to commence on the Upper Columbia river in clearing out the channel by Mr. Montgomery, who was awarded the contract last Friday by Major Robert. The condition of the contract requires that the work shall be completed by the 1st of next April.

HAULED OVER.—The bark Metanethon, was towed across the river yesterday by the steamer Senator, to the East side wharf. The locomotive "Eugene," and the tender will be hoisted to the wharf, after which the bark will return to this side, and complete discharging her cargo.

THE WINGED CALF.—The celebrated winged calf which was purchased by Wilson's Circus a few days ago, arrived by the train last evening. Its sudden appearance at Wells, Fargo & Co's office last evening was the signal for attracting a large and wondering crowd.

AGAIN POSTPONED.—In the U. S. District Court, on Saturday, on application of defendants' counsel, the time for filing affidavits and motion for new trial in the case of the United States vs. Frank Tompkins, et al., was postponed until the 23d inst.

SOON TO SUSPEND.—We are informed that the Government snag-puller, which has been actively engaged in cleaning out the channel of the Upper Willamette for the past few months, will soon suspend operations for the present season.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Morning and evening services will be held in the Baptist Church, corner of Alder and Fourth streets, at the usual hours. Preaching by the pastor, Rev. A. R. Medbury, at 11 A. M., and by Rev. Addison Jones at 7:30 P. M. The ordinance of the Christian baptism will be administered during the evening service.

The following are the subjects of discourses at the First Congregational Church, Rev. Geo. H. Atkinson, pastor: Morning service,—"The Great Purpose." Text—Daniel 1:8, "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the King's meat, nor with the wine which he drank." Subject for the evening service—"Jehovah, the Memorial Name." Text Ex. 6:2 3, "And God spoke unto Moses and said unto him, I am the Lord; and I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac and unto Jacob, by the name of God Almighty; but by my name Jehovah was I not known to them."

The pulpit of the Unitarian Church will be supplied this morning by Rev. J. M. Stephenson of Chicago, for many years a resident minister and editor of the religious press. The evening service will be conducted by the pastor. A "question box" at the door, similar to those in use in Eastern churches, will furnish the topics for answers or expositions from the pulpit. Questions of importance, doubts, inquiries concerning religious truth, and the conduct of life, are constantly occurring to the intelligent and active. Let such be brought by any honest inquirer, presented through the medium indicated, and as far as possible each question will receive an answer on the same evenings. By this means the pastor hopes to be brought into communication with the congregation upon many themes of individual and general interest.

POSTAL MATTERS.

The following extracts taken from the new Postal Code, have kindly been furnished by Postmaster Wakefield:

Section 146. That no obscene book, pamphlet, picture, print, or other publication of a vulgar or indecent character, or any letter upon the envelope of which, or postal card upon which spurious epithets may have been written or printed, or disloyal devices printed or engraved, shall be carried in the mail, and any person who shall knowingly deposit, or cause to be deposited for mailing or for delivery, any such obscene publication, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall, for every such offence, be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both, according to the circumstances and aggravation of the offence.

Sec. 149. That it shall not be lawful to convey by mail, nor deposit in a Postoffice to be sent by mail, any letters or circulars concerning illegal lotteries, so called gift concerts, or other similar enterprises offering prizes, or concerning schemes devised and intended to deceive and defraud the public for the purpose of obtaining money under false pretenses, and a penalty of not more than $500 nor less than $100, with costs of prosecution, is hereby imposed, upon conviction in any Federal Court, of the violation of this section.

Sec. 151 of the new Postal Code, reads as follows:

That no box at any Postoffice shall be assigned to the use of any person until the rent thereof has been paid for at least one quarter in advance, for which the Postmaster shall give a receipt.

It will be seen by this section that those holding boxes in Postoffices and neglect to settle the dues, or, are in arrears for box rent, must settle the same without delay, or the Postmaster is obliged to close such boxes.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

No runaways lately.

A delightful breeze was blowing yesterday.

The foot of Stark street presents a chaotic appearance.

Yesterday was one of the most lovely days of "all the year."

The wall around the Court House block is again receiving a new invoice of coping stone.

"No cows, no cream," was the way an intelligent compositor set up the words, "No cross, no crown."

One of our exchanges says that those fellows who are so eager to shake hands with the rebels over the bloody chasm, are generally those whose hands shook when the rebels approached during the war.

A wag, with a decided astronomical turn of mind suggested to us yesterday, that there would be a fall of stars soon—probably about the time of the going into effect of the new Police Bill. The irony is true but incisive.

As the warm weather still continues, summer dresses are yet in demand, and one turns with an uncomfortable sense of added warmth from the bright-colored merinos and woolen goods which are already displayed upon the counters.

AMUSEMENTS.

Another splendid audience greeted the performance of Wilson's grand combination circus last evening. The exhibition was in every way in keeping with the reputation of this most deserving company.

John Wilson, the old pioneer circus manager on this coast, will be the recipient of a grand complimentary benefit to be given on Monday evening. Mr. Wilson is well known with this public, and as a successful circus manager, has no superior on the Pacific coast. He has never been at the head of any but the best circus companies which have ever visited the State. A splendid bill will be offered on this occasion. We feel assured that the public will give Mr. Wilson a rousing testimonial. The performance and beneficiary deserve a liberal patronage. For particulars see the advertisement in another column.

PERSONAL.

J. W. Whalley, Esq., a well known attorney of this city, arrived at San Francisco a few days ago and is now on route for Portland. Mr. Whalley returns from a several months' tour through England and the Atlantic States.

EPICUREANS will find at Stalls Nos. 10 and 11, Central Market, a very choice lot of game, fish and poultry. Quinn, who continues to dispense these luxuries at the Union Market, Washington street, presides over these Stalls, and that is all that need be said to induce every one to call.

NOTES OF FASHION.

It is fashionable this fall for the ladies, in some circles, to wear a large bow of ribbon at their side.

The fashion of hanging handsome apartments with tapestry has been revived, much to the delight of antiquarians and upholsters.

Almost every year fashion adds another button to ladies' kid gloves. They will reach to the elbow shortly, as in the days of our grandmothers.

Some of the fashionable ladies are now wearing high combs, from which depends a bit of lace or a spray of flowers. The style is somewhat "Spanish," but very effective.

Black thread lace scarfs worn around the neck and with end falling below the waist, are now fashionable among ladies of the bon ton. Real lace only Dame Fashion permits.

Some of the ultra fashionable ladies have introduced a new custom, or rather re-adopted a very old one. When an acquaintance calls and is so unfortunate as to find the ladies out, instead of being asked to leave his card, he is requested to inscribe his name in a handsome visiting book.

Some of the handsomest jewelry for gentlemen we have ever seen has been introduced this winter, consisting mainly of scarf rings and scarf pins. They are made of dark oxidized silver and bright gold contrasted, and are mostly of war-like designs. Cavalry sabres three inches long, spear heads, dagger handles and revolvers.

A very dressy hat of rice straw has the brim bound with black velvet. A bow of black ribbon is placed upon one side, with a black aigrette. A cluster of crimson zinnias are so arranged as to fall from the side of the hat over the chignon at the back. There is also a tribute of black lace falling beneath the flowers. Black ribbon strings.

It looks as if men as well as women were slowly re-adopting the old fashioned style for full dress. Last winter brought in vests elaborately embroidered; this winter our dress coats have no lappels and are elaborately embroidered at the cuffs and buttonholes, and faced with silks. By the end of the season we shall have knee breeches, and another year will see us in gay colors and powdered periwigs.

"THE DAY OF ATONEMENT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A writer in your columns yesterday says: "According to Jewish theology, the reconciliation between the sinner and God, is effected without mediation," &c. As meditation is the center of all theology, Jew, Gentile and Christian, I beg leave to state that I shall discuss the significance of the "Great Day of Atonement" on Sunday morning in my own pulpit. I tender a very friendly invitation to descendants of Abraham, of whom I also am one, though not according to the flesh.

Another Statement.

A gentleman who claims to have been an eye-witness to the encounter in Salem, in which Messrs. Lappeus, Semple, and Trevitt figured, has handed us the following statement of the facts in the case, as he says they are susceptible of proof, and requests its publication in our columns. We give place to the statement as a matter that may interest some of our readers, the parties concerned being the President of the Senate, the State Printer, an ex-State Senator, and the Chief of the Portland Police:

Semple was going from the Chemeketa Hotel towards State street, when Lappeus and Fay suddenly emerged from Pete's Chop House and confronted him. Lappeus said something, to which Semple made a reply, and then Lappeus struck him with his fist, partially knocking him down. Semple then drew his revolver and backed into the saloon, closely followed by Lappeus and Fay, who were aiming blows at him all the time. When all parties were inside, Semple struck Lappeus on the head with his pistol, knocking him down upon the floor on the floor, and then struck him again and again on the head, cutting deep gashes at every stroke. At this juncture Fay struck at Semple with a loaded cane, and the latter quickly abandoned Lappeus and seizing his other antagonist by the throat, began beating him on the head with his pistol. A bystander, seeing Lappeus on the floor covered with blood, and Fay being apparently overpowered, seized Semple's arm and wrenched the revolver from his hands. Up to this time Semple remained unhurt. When the parties separated Semple went into the back room, and the others remained near the bar. In a few seconds Vic. Trevitt came in and began abusing Semple, who immediately struck him with his fist. Trevitt made some outcry and Lappeus and Fay rushed to his assistance, and all three began a furious attack with their canes. Semple, being disarmed and cornered, was repeatedly struck upon the head by the three others, who appeared to be perfectly enraged. In a few seconds Semple was covered with blood from head to foot, and by reason of its getting in his eyes became blind. It was then that he cried out that he was being murdered, and made a rush through his enemies to the door.

OREGON.

A free fight occurred between railroad men and hotel keepers at Oakland last week. The only whole nose that was left belonged to the tea kettle.

Mr. Charles Bascom raised in his garden, in Dallas City, from two potatoes of the peerless variety, one hundred and fifty-three pounds. Who can beat it?

Whilst Mr. Kludy of Oakland was engaged in fastening a load of hay on a wagon the pole slipped and struck him in the face, inflicting a painful wound.

The story started by the Mercury of the 11th, about a young girl being severely hurt by one of the teachers in the Sisters' school at Salem, turns out to be untrue. The father of the girl denies the whole thing in a published letter.

Mr. Cushing forwarded by boat on Friday morning from the Dalles to Gen. Cass, President of the Northern Pacific Railroad, a box containing twenty four apples that weighed forty four pounds. The General intends taking them East to exhibit to his friends.

Master Charlie Bolt met with rather a severe accident on Friday afternoon while returning home from his father's house. He was about to mount his horse when the animal suddenly whirled about and threw Charlie violently to the ground, breaking one of the bones of his right arm just above the wrist. But with his usual pluck he mounted and rode into town, where his injury received proper attention.

No gentleman knowingly treats an unskilful tailor with the "cut up" of his clothes, but seeks those who are reliable in every way. In fashionableness of cut, and neatness and durability of make-up, it is well known that the work of Fisbel & Ketoris, corner of Washington and First streets, is unsurpassed. Those are in search of a choice selection of fall goods, and it is therefore recommended to those wishing the best to call. Boys' clothing a specialty.

Harmony is the Life, Soul and Beauty of Music. It is a most pleasing and interesting study, and it is a necessary and important study to all who wish to render a composition according to the design of the author. It is a matter of surprise to all my advanced pupils why their former teachers did not teach them Harmony.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the shoot-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

If I were told that I must die to-morrow
Lifted the most anxi
Which sinks the soul bear me but all fear and sorr w
For my one
A the flight to be all the short jo rney through
What should I do

I do not think that I should shrink or falter
But just go on
Doing my work nor hasten one ek to alter
Aught that is done
But raise and my eyes and I would smile and pray
For one more day

And, lying down at night for a last sleep
Say in that ear
Which hearkens ever Lord with Thy keeping
I am here
And, when to-morrow bring Thy ever still Do Thou Thy will

I might not sleep for awe but peaceful tender
My soul would lie
All the night long and when the morning splendor
Flushed o er the sky
I think that I could smile—could calmly say
It is this day

But, if a wondrous hand from the blue yonder
Held out a scroll
On which my life was writ, and I with wonder
Beheld unroll
To a long century's end its mystic clue
What should I do?

What could I do oh blessed Guide and Master
Other than this
Still go on as now not slower faster,
Not fear to miss
The road, although so very long it be
While led by Thee?

Step after step, feeling Thee close beside me,
Although unseen,
Through thorns through flowers, whether the tempest hide Thee
Or heavens serene
Assured Thy faithfulness cannot betray,
Thy love decay

I may not know my God no hand revealeth
Thy counsels wise;
Along the path a deepening shadow stealeth
No voice replies
To all my questioning thought the time to tell
And this well

Let me keep on abiding and unfearing
Thy will always
Through a long century s ripening fruition
Or a short day s
Then can't not come too soon; I can wait
If Thou come later

LAUGHING IN MEETIN

BY MRS H B STOWE

We were in disgrace, we boys and the reason of it was this we had laughed out in meeting time! To be sure the occasion was a trying one, even to more disciplined nerves Parson Lothrop had exchanged pulpits with Parson Summeral of North Warren Now, Parson Summeral was a man in the very outset likely to provoke the risibles of unspiritualized juveniles He was a thin, wiry, frisky little man, in a powdered white wig, black tights and silk stockings, with bright knee buckles and shoe buckles, with round, dark, snapping eyes, and a curious, high cracked, squealing voice, the very first tones of which made all the children stare and giggle. The news that Parson Summeral was going to preach in our village spread abroad among us as a prelude to something funny It had flavor like the charm of circus acting, and on the Sunday morning of our story we went to the house of God in a very hilarious state, all ready to set off in a laugh on the slightest provocation.

The occasion was not long wanting Parson Lothrop had a favorite dog yelept Trip, whose behavior in meeting was notoriously far from that edifying pattern which befits a ministers dog on Sundays Trip was a nervous dog, and a dog that never could be taught to conceal his emotions or to respect conventionalities If anything about the performance in the singer's seat did not please him, he was apt to express himself in a lugubrious howl If the sermon was longer than suited him, he would gape with such a loud creak of his jaws as would arouse everybody's attention. If the flies disturbed his afternoon's nap, he would give sudden snarls or snaps, or if anything troubled his dreams, he would bark out in his sleep in a manner not only to dispel his own slumbers, but those of certain worthy deacons and old ladies, whose sanctuary repose was broken and troubled For all these reasons, Madam Lothrop, had been forced, as a general thing, to deny Trip the usual sanctuary privileges of good family dogs in that age, and shut him up on Sundays to private meditation Trip, of course was only the more set on attendance and would hide behind doors, jump out of windows, sneak through by ways and alleys, and lie hid till the second bell had done tolling, when suddenly he would appear in the broad aisle, innocent and happy, and take his seat as composedly as any member of the congregation.

Imagine us youngsters on the qui vive with excitement at seeing Parson Summeral flask up into the pulpit with all the vivacity of a black grasshopper! We looked at each other and giggled very cautiously with due respect to Aunt Lois sharp observation

At first, there was only a mild, quiet simmering of giggle compressed decorously within the bounds of propriety, and we pursued our muscles up with stringent resolution when ever we caught the apprehensive eye of our elders

But when directly after the closing notes of the tolling second bell Master Trip walked gravely up the front aisle, and, seating himself squarely in front of the pulpit, raised his nose with a critical air toward the scene of the forthcoming performance, it was too much for us—the repression was almost convulsive Trip wore an alert, attentive air, befitting a sound orthodox dog, who smells a possible heresy, and deems it his duty to watch the performances narrowly

Evidently he felt called upon to see who and what were to occupy that pulpit in his master s absence

Up rose Parson Summeral and up went Trip s nose, vibrating with intense attention

The Parson began in high cracked voice to intone the hymn

"Sing to the Lord aloud

when Trip broke in with a dismal howl

The Parson went on to give directions to the deacon, in the same voide in which he had been reading so that the whole effect of the performance was somewhat as follows

'Sing to the Lord aloud'

'(Please turn that dog)—

"And make a joyful noise'

The dog was turned out, and the chorus had then best to make a joyful noise but we boys were upset for the day debarred ever to the temptations of Satan and plunged in waves and billows of hysterical giggle from which neither winks nor frowns from Aunt Lois nor the awful text of the tithing man nor the ominous fifes of fennel and caraway seed passed by great brother culling were us

Fairly left to be sure that here was a trial that called for some indulgence Hard faces, even among the gloomiest saints betrayed a transient quiver of the risible muscles old ladies put up their fans mouths and noses in the singers seat laughed outright and for the moment a general snicker among the children was pardoned But I was one of the luckless kind whose nerves once set in vibration could not be composed When the reign of gravity and decorum had returned, Harry and I sat by each other shaking with suppressed laughter Everything in the subsequent exercises took a funny turn, and in long prayer when everybody else was still and decorous the whole scene came over me with such overpowering force that I exploded with laughter and had to be taken out of meeting and marched home by Aunt Lois as a convicted criminal What especially moved her indignation was that the more she rebuked and upbraided the more I laughed, till the tears rolled down my cheeks which Aunt Lois construed into wilful disrespect to her authority and resented accordingly

By Sunday evening, as we gathered around the fire, the reaction from undue gayety to sobriety had taken place and we were in a pensive and penitent state Grandmother was gracious and forgiving, but Aunt Lois still preserved that frosty air of reprobation which she held to be a salutary means of quickening our consciences for the future It was, therefore, with the usual delight that we saw our old friend Sam come in and seat himself quietly down on the block in the chimney corner With Sam we felt assured of indulgence and patronage, for though always rigidly moral and instructive in his turn of mind he had, that fellow being for transgressors which is characteristic of the loose jointed, easy going style of his individuality

'Lordy massy boy—yes' said Sam, virtuously in view of some of Aunt Lois threats, "ye ought never to laugh out up in meetin, that are's so, but then there is times when the best of us gets took down We gets took unawares, ye see—even ministers does Yis nature will get the upper hand afore they know it

'Why, Sam, ministers don t ever laugh in meetin', do they?'

We put the question with wide eyes Such a supposition bordered on profanity, we thought it was approaching the sin of Uzzah, who unwarily touched the ark of the Lord

"Laws, yes Why haven t you never heard how there was a council held to try Parson Morrel for laughing out in prayer time?"

"Laughing in prayer time!" we both repeated, with uplifted hands and eyes

My grandfather's mild face became luminous with a suppressed smile, which brightened it as the moon does a cloud, but he said nothing

"Yes, yes,' said my grandmother "that affair did make a dreadful scandal in the time on t But Parson Morrel was a good man, and I'm glad the council wasn t hard on him

'Wal,' said Sam Lawson, 'after all it was more like Babbitt s fault than twas any body s Ye see like he was allers for gettin' what he could out o town, and he would feed his sheep on the meetin house green Somehow or other, Ike's fences allers contrived to give out, come Sunday, and up would come his sheep, and like was too pious to drive em back Sunday, and so there they was He was talked to enough about it, cause ye see, to have sheep and lambs a baa m and a blatin all prayer and sermon time, wan t the thing Mem ber that are old meetin house up to the north end, down under Blueberry Hill? The land sort o' sloped down, so as a body had come into the meetin house steppin down instead o up

"Fact was, they said 'twas put there cause the land wan t good for nothing else, and the folks thought putting a meetin house on t would be a clean savin'—but Parson Morrel he didn t like it—and was free to tell them his mind on t, that twas like bringin' the lame and the blind to the Lord s service—but there twas

There warn t a better minister nor no one more set by in all the State than Parson Morrel His doctrines was right up and down good and sharp and he gave saints and sinners then meet in due season and for consoling and comfortin widders and orphans Parson Morrel hadn t his match The women set lots by him, and he was allus ready to take tea round, and made things pleasant and comfortable, and he had a good story for everyone and a word for the children and may be an apple or a cookey in his pocket for 'em Wal, you know there ain't no pleasin everybody and ef Gabriel himself right down out o heaven was to come and be a minister I expect there'd be a pickin at his wings and sort of fault findin Now Aunt Jerushy Sedan and Aunt Polly Hotkin they sed Parson Morrel wan t solemn enough Ye see there s them that thinks that a minister ought to be just like the town hearse so that ye think of death, judgment and nothing else when ye see him round and ef they see a man rosy and chipped and havin a pretty nice sociable sort of a time, why they say he aint spiritooal minded But in my time I've seen ministers that the most awakenin kind in the pulpit was the liveliest when they was out on t There is a time to laugh, scripture says there is, and I never could see into it myself, but some folks never seem to remember that nor

'But Sam I've came you to say it was the Bullis's fault' What was it about the sheep?'

Oh wal yes—I m comin to that now It was about them sheep—I expect they was the instrument the devil set to work to tempt Parson Morrel to laugh in prayer time

Ye see there was old Dick Ikes bell weather was the fightinest old critter that ever you see Why Dick would butt at his own shadder and everybody said it was a shame the old critter should be left to run loose cause he run at the children and scare the women but out of them was Wal I used to live out in that parish in them days, and Lem Sedo and I used to go sparkin Sunday nights to see the Larkin gals—and I've had to go right across the lot where Dick was—so we used to go and stamp at the fence and call and Dick would see us and put down his head and run at us full chisel and come butt against the fence, and then I'd ketch him by the horns and hold him while Lem would run and get over the fence tother side the lot and then I'd let go and Lem would holler and shake a stick at him and away he'd go full butt at Lem, and Lem would ketch his horns and hold him till I come over—that was the way we managed Dick—but of course sudden up behind a feller he'd give him a butt in the small of his back that would make him run on all fours one while—he was a great rogue, Dick was Wal, that Summer I remember they had old Deacon Tilkins for tithing man, and I tell you he give it to the boys lively There warn t no sleepin nor no playin for the deacon had eyes like a gimblet and he was as quick as a cat, and the youngsters had to look out for themselves It did really seem as if the deacon was like them four beasts in the Revelations that was full of eyes behind and before, for which ever way he was standin if you gave only a wink he was down on you and hit you a tap with his stick I know once Lem Sadoc just wrote two words in the psalm book and passed it to Keziah Larkin, and the deacon give him such a tap that Lem grew red as a beet and vowed he'd be up with him some day for that

'Well, Lordy massy, folks that is so chipper and high steppin has to have their come downs, and the deacon he had to hev his

'That are Sunday I remember it now just as well as it twas yesterday The parson he give us his great sermon, reconcilin decrees and free agency—everybody said that are sermon was a masterpiece He preached it up to Cambridge at commencement, but it so happened it was one o them blin hot days that come in August, when you can fairly hear the huckleberries a sizzing and cookin on the bushes and the locust keeps a gittin like a red hot saw Wal, such times, decrees or no decrees, the best on us will get sleepy The old meetin house stood right down at the foot of a hill that kept off all the wind and the sun blazed away at them great west windows, and there was pretty sleepy times there, Well the deacon he flew round a spell, and woke up the children and tapped the boys on the head and kept everything straight as he could till the sermon was most through, when he rally got most tuckered out and he sot down in the door right opposite the minister and fairly got asleep himself, just as the minister got to make the last prayer

'Wal Parson Morrel had a way o prayin with his eyes open Folks said it wasn t the best way but it was Parson Morrel s way anyhow and so he was prayin' he couldn t help seein that Deacon Tilkins was a noddin and a bobbin out toward the place where old Dick was feedin' with the sheep, front o the meetin house

'Lem and me was sittin where we could look out and we jest see old Dick stop feedin' and look at the deacon The deacon had a little round head as smooth as an apple, with a nice powdered wig on it, and sot there makin bobs and bows, and Dick begun to think it was suthin sort o pussonal Lem and me was settin just where we could look out and see the hull picter and Lem was fit to split

Good, now, says he, 'that critter'll pay the deacon off lively pretty soon

The deacon bobbed his head a spell, and old Dick he shook his horn and stamped at him sort of threatenin Finally the deacon he give a great bow and bow, ht his head right down at him, and old Dick he sot out full tilt and come down on him Ker chunk and knocked him head over heels into the broad aisle, and his wig flew one way and he tother and Dick made a lunge at it as it flew and carried it off on his horns

Wal you may believe that broke up the meetin for one while for Parson Morrel laughed out and all the gals and boys they stomped and roared, and the old deacon he got up and began pullin his shins—cause he didn t see the joke on t

"You don t orter laugh it s no laughing matter—it is a solemn thing, says he 'I might hev been sent into eternity by that 'ere critter says he

Then they all roared all him hawed the more to see the deacon dancing round with his little shiny head so smooth a fly would trip on it

I believe my soul you d laugh to see it in my grave, says he

Wal the truth on it was twas just one of them busting up times that nature has, when there aint nothing for it but to give in twas just like the ice breaking up in the Charles River—it all come it once and no whoa to Sunday or no Sunday sin or no sin the most on em laughed till they cried, and couldn t help it

But the deacon he went home feelin pretty sore about it Lem Sadoc he picked up his wig and handed it to him Says he 'old Dick was laying tithing man, wasn t he deacon? Teach you to make allowance for other folks that get sleepy

"Then Mrs Tilkins she went over to Aunt Jerushy Sedans and Aunt Polly Hotkins and they had a pot of tea over it and cried it was awful of Parson Morrel to get such an example and sot him up as he has got to be down right Miss Hotkins she allers knew that Parson Morrel hadn t no spirituality and now it had broke out into open sin and led all the rest of them into it and Mrs Tilkins she said such a man want fit to preach, and Miss Hotkins said she couldn t never hear him again and the next Sunday the deacon and his wife they hitched up and driv right miles over to Parson Lothrops and took Aunt Holly on the backseat

Wal the thing stowed and growed till it seemed as if there warn t nothing else talked about because Aunt Polly and Miss Tilkins and Jerushy Sedan they didn t do nothing but talk about it and that set everybody else a talking

Finally it was agreed they must have a council to settle the hash So all the women they went to choppin mince and makin up pumpkin pies and cranberry tarts and biling doughnuts, getting ready for the ministers and delegates—cause councils always eats powerful—and they had quite a stir, like a general training The horses they was hitched all up and down the stalls, a stompin and switching their tails and all the women was a talking, and they had up everybody round for witnesses, and finally Parson Morrel he says

'Brethren, just let me tell you the story just as it happened, and if you do not every one of you laugh as hard as I did why then I will give it up

"The parson he was a master hand at setting off a story, and afore he had done, he got them all in such a roar they didn t know where to leave off Finally, they give sentence that there hadn t no temptation took him but such as is common to man, but advised him afterward allers to pray with his eyes shut, and the parson he confessed he d ha done it, and meant to do better in the future, and so they settled it

'So boys,' said Sam, who always drew a moral, 'ye see it larns you you must take care what you look at, if you want to keep from laughing in meeting —Christian Union

The Future of the Papacy

GENERAL UNEASINESS IN THE ROMAN CATHOLIC WORLD—PROBABLE VISIT OF THE POPE TO THE UNITED STATES—WHISPERS AND RUMORS

[Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial]

LONDON, August 27 —There seems to be signs of general uneasiness in the Roman Catholic world here in Great Britain as well as elsewhere Events in Italy and in Germany seem to have thrown the most influential men in that church into a great deal of uncertainty concerning the future, and they have in vain looked to the Pope for help and leadership The Pope is too old to comprehend the situation, and can do no more than curse the Italian Government Cardinal Antonelli has at the eleventh hour thrown up the struggle, and insists that the Pope shall make friends with Italy But he is said to quite fail, either through indifference or age, to comprehend the fact that one by one every country is withdrawing from the church the power which is its foundation stone—the control of education The rapid secularization of education in Europe is the darkest shadow that is stealing over the Roman Church The power to mould the mind of the child was its sole hope for the future, and that it has irretrievably lost in Germany, and bids fair to loose in France In the last named country, however, the clergy are yet to make a vehement struggle on this point, and I have been assured by very able and well informed I reckonon that there is a possibility that a storm may burst over France when that question of education come to be finally settled, which will be as the pouring out of the seventh phial The Catholic Church very much needs just now a great man for a leader, but he certainly has not yet given any sign of his coming The ablest and most learned confessor of its faith, Dr Von Dollinger, is practically and politically divorced from the councils of the church The next man to him in ability is Archbishop Manning Manning is keenly alive to the situation and his voice is second to no other in influence with the Pope, but the Catholic world on the Continent generally seems to know very little of him They are not generally well educated, and the Archbishop is not a Mezzofanti in his knowledge of languages Moreover, Archbishop Manning and Cardinal Cullen have both even more than they can manage in the effort to hold their own in Ireland At this juncture thinks look very serious for the church in that island The Keogh decision, arraigning so many priests of high repute for or mixed interference in the Galway election has been a most damning blow to the church whose angry struggles against the sudden accession of unpopularity are supposed to underlie the mobs at Belfast It is now recognized that beneath the Galway election revelations and the mobs together the last hope of the Romanists to control education in Ireland has perished Mr Gladstone, who was more than half inclined to give them such control could not now do so without incurring political death Moreover after these recent events it will be impossible for him to discriminate, as former ly in favor of the Irish Catholics Hitherto it has been a kind of assumption that the million or more of Irish Protestants are and must remain, by the accession of their position loyal and that therefore the only people to be conciliated and petted were the Roman Catholics But English and Scotch Protestants will not any longer see these sentimental favors given to the Catholics so lavishly And thus it is that just now the outlook for the Catholics is by no means more cheerful here than in other parts of Europe

Under these circumstances it is hardly wonderful that we should again hear whispers and rumors that of the most prominent Catholics have turned their eyes upon America as the arena which offers most encouragement for their future operations I am told, on what I deem good authority that for some months correspondence has been going on between the Catholic leaders on the two sides of the atlantic and that the American bishops have been presenting very roseate views of the growth of their cause in America It is particularly stated that a large number of persons who have become suddenly rich in America have been giving in their adhesion to the Catholic Church, that a subtle connection has appeared between petroleum and popery Whether there be so or not you can judge better than I can, but I suspect there is a good deal of truth in the representations also and to have been made by American Catholics as to the extent to which their schools are subsidized by one or more of the States I lately heard that the accomplished and handsome Lady Herbert, a most enterprising Catholic has been recently entertaining (at the ancient seat of the Herberts near Salisbury) a number of influential and wealthy Americans, some of whom are already Catholics, and some of them in a fair way to become so under her ladyship s persuasive manners and influence, I hear to day that Lady Herbert now contemplates a visit to America to be made in the intereat of the Church to which she is devoted It is thought and I dare say with truth, that so cultivated and beautiful a representative of one of the oldest and noblest families in England will be able to exert a more potent influence on society in America—especially that part of it which has a penchant for the aristocracy—than any male mission ary How soon her visit is to be made I do know but I am assured that it is in contemplation, and that it is not likely to be followed by movements in the same direction of a very important character I have even heard that a visit from the Pope himself is not improbable, to be made out of consideration for the unexpected unanimity with which the American prelates supported the decree of infallibity I only state the impressions I have derived from the conversations of the well informed and do not desire to offer any criticisms of an offensive character I do not blame the Catholics for being grieved by their sorry prospects in Europe nor for their desire to get as good a hold as they can of the New World They are not singular among churches in such aims and hopes I have no doubt that the rest of us would be very glad to captivate the world to our faith At any rate you need not wonder at the Jesuits at least should make America their city of refuge

Wheat in Liverpool 10s 2d an 10s 4d

The week closes under a somewhat better condition of business affairs than it began, although there has been but little change for the better in financial circles. The stirring nev heretofore so frequently noted continues, and a careful husbandry of their resources on the part of our business men is highly necessary to keep the channels of trade unobstructed That any signal disaster is indicated by the pressure in monetary affairs is not believed by far seeing financiers, though the care suggested not being observed, a crash might be brought about more readily when the money market is in its present depressed condition than in flush times

Our city cotemporaries are clamorous for the repeal of the usury law as a remedy for the tightness in our money market although they have both failed to show why other countries and States not having any law on this subject have experienced the same pressure, or why from California the golden State, where the capitalist can loan his funds at as high a rate as any one will give is at this time crying out for more capital, and unable to furnish the money to get her enormous wheat crop out of the granary The abrogation of law on the subject of interest has certainly not flooded the California market with money or brought the abundance of capital into the State which those theorizers would have us believe would be the case in Oregon if the usury law which they are pleased to say disgraces our statute books ' were abolished

Our figures on the treasure shipments from this coast contained in the commercial department yesterday were not taken from the Alta s report as indicated by the commercial editor of the Bulletin, but were compiled from a carefully prepared financial article in the San Francisco Commercial Herald and Market Review admitted by all to be the most reliable commercial paper in California That paper shows the excess of exported treasure this year over that of last to be eleven millions, exclusive of what goes through the mails, and estimates that to be between one and two millions
